

Ministers To Meet Again On Nuclear Ban

By LEWIS GULICK

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Minister Lord Home sit down with the Soviet Union's Andrei A. Gromyko today to see if further East-West accords can follow the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

The Western ministers may see Gromyko again next week, depending on the outcome of the meeting.

Western diplomats speculated that this first high-level cold war meeting since the test-ban signing in Moscow Aug. 5 would produce mild results.

Agreement to hold further talks, and perhaps discussion of a proposal for an East-West exchange of observers to guard against surprise attack, seemed the most to be expected.

The Western sources gave this general picture:

Both sides appear interested in extending the pause in the cold war but neither is ready to accept the other's terms for solving long-standing major disputes.

Gromyko is expected to propose the observer exchange and a non-aggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the East European military bloc, ideas advanced by Premier Khrushchev at the test-ban negotiations.

The Western Allies have not agreed on any specific proposals. They like the idea of an observer exchange but are cool on the non-aggression pact. They will ask Gromyko to spell out his ideas to see to what extent they might be acceptable to the West.

Beyond this, Rusk and Gromyko may be able in further meetings next week to concur on U.S.-Soviet deals not requiring agreement among the Allies. Possibilities here range from cooperation in space to new embassies in Washington and Moscow.

Rusk, Home and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder of West Germany, in a 2½ hour session Friday virtually ruled out the prospects of a nonaggression pact at this time because of its relation to the German issue.

The Western leaders want guarantees on West Berlin's freedom included in any nonaggression pact. Rusk and Home agreed with Schröder that nothing should be done to damage the chances for German reunification.

The Western three looked with more favor on the observer exchange, under which inspectors would be stationed at major transport centers where they could warn of large military movements.

Whether Gromyko would attach unacceptable conditions to this was something Rusk and Home hoped to find out. Informants said the Soviets have not tipped their hand since Khrushchev outlined the idea in vague terms.

N. Korean Sentenced to Death

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — South Korea's central intelligence agency announced today it has captured a former North Korean deputy premier and sentenced him to death.

The agency identified him as Hwang Tai-sung, who was also onetime deputy trade minister in the Communist North Korean regime, and said he had come south to make contact with strongman Chung-Hee Park. His aim, the agency said, was to persuade Park, to support reunification of Korea on terms satisfactory to the north.

The announcement said the capture took place Oct. 20, 1961, and no reason was given for the almost two-year delay in publicizing it.

Former Premier Huh Chung, a leading opponent of Park in the presidential campaign, charged Thursday that Park's government had been secretly in contact with Hwang. A spokesman for Park's military junta denied it, and then came today's announcement.

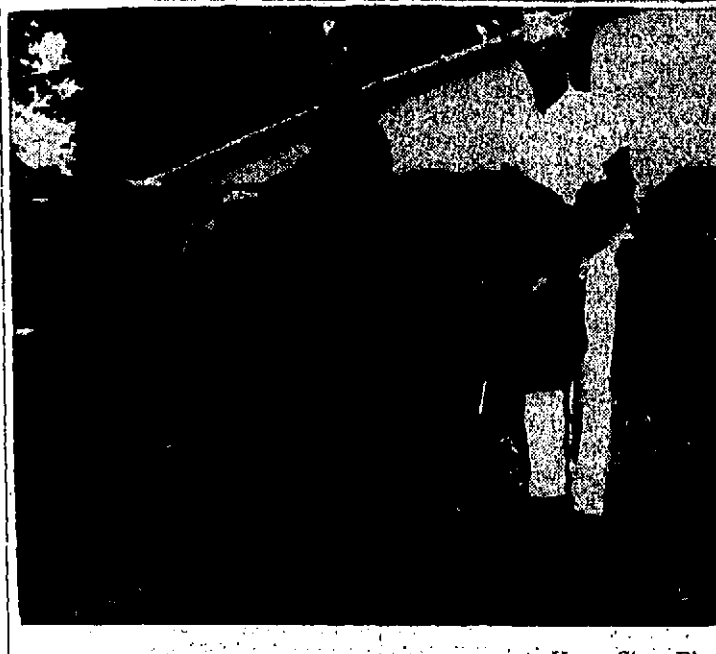

Agreement Signed

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union signed an agreement this week that will boost their trade next year to a record value of $220 million, officials announced.

Dynamite Sticks a Mystery

BLITHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Mississippi County Sheriff William Berryman said today it still hasn't been determined where 27 sticks of dynamite a Blitheville Air Force Base airman found in his yard Tuesday came from.

Berryman said S-Sgt. W. D. Trotter of Gossnell moved into a house about a week ago and when he started cleaning the yard Tuesday night, found the crystalizing dynamite.

Air base demolition men said nitroglycerine was running from the sticks and the dynamite was highly dangerous.

An Air Force demolition team took the dynamite to a destination area and exploded it. Some 90 students were removed from classes at Gossnell because the truck carrying the explosive passed by their school.

Berryman said the dynamite was about 2½ years old and could have been originally acquired for blasting stumps in the area.

Niece of Grace Has Elop

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Mary Lee Davis, 15-year-old niece of Princess Grace of Monaco, and a youth with whom she had eloped from Philadelphia four weeks ago, were found here Tuesday night.

Miss Davis, daughter of wealthy parents, had been working as a waitress in a hotel coffee shop and the youth she intended to marry, John Paul Jones Jr., 20, had been selling encyclopedias.

Police said they had been in Des Moines about three weeks, staying in an apartment which a detective described as small but tastefully furnished and well decorated.

Mary Lee said they were not yet married but were in love.

Acting on a tip from the boy's employer, who had seen Mary Lee's picture in the Des Moines Tribune, officers took the young couple to the police station for questioning. They were not held.

Mary Lee is the daughter of George L. Davis Jr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Conlan.

In Washington State Twice Today

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — President Kennedy returned to Washington state for the second time in 4 hours today to plug for the expansion of federal recreation projects. The presidential jet plane landed at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport where the President transferred to a waiting helicopter for a short flight to Cheney Stadium here.

El Doradoans to Welcome Their Darling

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — The most gala celebration ever to hit this town is planned Nov. 1 with Donna Axum, Miss America 1964, as the center of attraction.

Signs have gone up at highway entrances to the city proclaiming that El Dorado is the home town of the beauty who captured the Miss America Crown Sept. 7 at Atlantic City, N. J.

When she makes her first trip back to the state, Donna will be greeted by a miniature "Miss America" pageant that will climax a full day of celebration.

Charles J. Brown, general chairman of the pageant and entertainment committee for the homecoming, revealed these details Friday:

A parade will be held either Friday morning, Nov. 1 or that afternoon with marching bands from throughout Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Floats for the parade will be professionally decorated, he said.

A band concert will be held in the El Dorado Memorial Stadium at 7 p.m. then the "Miss America" type pageant will be staged with Bob Evans, head of the state Publicity and Parks Commission as master of ceremonies.

Miss Arkansas, Miss Mississippi, Miss Louisiana and Miss Missouri will attend the pageant.

Also there with Donna will be the four runners-up in the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City, Miss Arizona, Miss Tennessee, Miss Hawaii and Miss District of Columbia.

The famed Kilgore Rangerettes marching unit from Kilgore College in Texas will perform.

Brown said an Ohio firm has been hired to decorate the city and the stadium for the event and to prepare a special float for Donna.

Counties Ask for More Receipts

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Auditor Jimmie Jones said Thursday that Conway and Cleburne counties have asked for and received additional poll tax receipts bringing to 10 the total number of counties which needed the extra receipts.

Jones said the 10 counties received a total of 10,300 additional receipts. The deadline for paying the poll tax is midnight Tuesday.

Other counties which got additional receipts are Clay, Pope, Benton, Crittenden, Faulkner, Independence, Lawrence and Ouachita.

The poll tax being purchased now qualifies the voter for elections through Oct. 1, 1964, including next summer's primary elections.

Record Altitude of 354,200 Feet

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. space agency has revised upward—in 354,200 feet—the record altitude reached by X15 pilot Joseph A. Walker Aug. 22.

The revision puts Walker above the 67-mile mark. The preliminary estimate given the day of the flight was 351,000 feet. The old record was 347,800, set July 19 by Walker.

Turnback Funds Placed in Escrow

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Treasurer Nancy Hall said Wednesday that 11 counties and the cities in them will have some of their state turnback fund placed in escrow after Dec. 31 if they do not bring their property assessments up to 18 per cent by then.

If reductions are made and the money is placed in escrow, she said, it will be given to the counties in a lump sum when they bring their assessments up.

The Assessment Coordination Office gave the list of counties to the Treasurer. The counties, their assessments, and the amount they would lose are:

Boone, 17.14, $468.43 a quarter; Franklin, 17.19, $411.46; Greene, 17, $601.8; Howard, 7, $455.78; Independence, 7.39, $398.40; Madison, 15.60, $1,422.41; Newton, 16.92, $520.06; Searcy, 16.90, $544.48; Sharp, 15.29, $1,810.96; Van Buren, 17.29, $347.48; Woodruff, 16.99, $536.55.

Turnback funds represent tax money returned to counties, cities and school districts to help in their operation.

The towns and school districts would have part of their funds placed in escrow if the county assessment is low.

It was at first thought by the treasurer's office that the reduction would take place Oct. 1. Then the law was studied and it was found that the counties would have another three months to bring their assessments up before the money would be placed in escrow.

Forty-one cities in the 11 counties share in state turnback. Mrs. Hall said she had not figured how much the cities would lose.

Editors Are Arrested in Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Police arrested two United States newspaper editors and held them for an hour Thursday after they interviewed Communist leader Gustavo Machado, an informed source said today.

Charles K. Lucey, editor of the Trenton (N.J.) Evening Times, and Walker Stone, editor-in-chief of Scripps-Howard Newspapers, were picked up on the capital steps after leaving the offices of Machado, secretary-general of the Community party, who is a deputy in Congress.

They were accompanied by James Whelan, Caracas bureau manager of the United Press-International.

The informed source said the police took all three to police headquarters, where they were questioned, given a citation to reappear Saturday and then released.

Lucey and Stone had an interview with President Romulo Betancourt this morning. It was expected the citation calling for their reappearance at police headquarters will be withdrawn or quashed.

The police have been keeping close watch on the activities of Communist congressmen, whom the government accused of directing terrorist attacks under cover of their parliamentary immunity from arrest.

Drought Made a Moonshiner

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — James Junior Rackley explained to federal Judge J. Smith Henley Wednesday that he only resorted to moonshine whisky production because the summer was dry and he couldn't find work.

That was the same problem in 1955, he said, when he was put on probation for making moonshine.

The judge noted that in every drought year the area near Rackley's home in Pope County seemed to get a little "wetter."

Henley asked Rackley how long a prison term it would take to keep him from starting his operation again.

"I don't know," answered Rackley. "I ain't never been there."

The judge decided 60 days would be sufficient. Rackley pleaded guilty.

Valachi Gets Revenge By Testifying

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mobster Joseph Valachi, who received La Cosa Nostra's "kiss of death," is getting revenge with words instead of bullets.

In his first day in the witness chair before the Senate investigations subcommittee, the stocky dope peddler and slayer put the heat on Vito Genovese, "the boss of all bosses" on the crime syndicate's secret commission.

Valachi has promised to drag the 10 or so other members of the commission into the spotlight.

Why was he doing this, asked the chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

"I want to destroy them," retorted Valachi.

"You get nothing but misery once you're in you can't get out. They've been—let's say, bad to the soldiers," said the 60-year-old hoodlum who admitted making $150,000 in a good year during World War II.

"What did you do for them?" asked Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y.

"I'd go out and kill for them," retorted Valachi, appearing surprised that anyone had to ask.

His testimony Friday that Genovese ran a crime syndicate from a federal prison cell brought a senatorial demand for a tightening up of prison discipline.

Valachi put the finger on Genovese as a Cosa Nostra overlord whose life-and-death power over subordinates went along with him when he was sentenced to prison as a narcotics racketeer.

Valachi swore he received the "kiss of death"—gangland's death warrant—from Genovese when they were cellmates last year at the Atlanta, Ga., penitentiary.

He said he believes Genovese also engineered the assassination of missing mobster Anthony (Tony Bender) Strollo.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, senior Republican on the subcommittee, told reporters the testimony should serve as a warning to wardens.

"I would think life would be less pleasant for Vito Genovese as a result of this testimony," said Mundt.

Genovese has been moved from Atlanta to the federal prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., for "security reasons," the Justice Department said.

Genovese, who is appealing his 15-year sentence as a narcotics racketeer, is quartered in Leavenworth's hospital because, prison officials said, he has a heart condition and high blood pressure.

Warden J.C. Taylor said Friday that Genovese isn't running any crime army from Leavenworth. His contacts are so limited, said Taylor, that he could do little or nothing himself.

Genovese is held in such awe and fear, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has testified, that no move has been made by the New York organization to replace the racketeer as chief until his appeal is decided.

4 Indicted for Cuban Visit Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four New York City men were indicted today on charges of conspiring illegally to organize and promote a trip by 59 American students to Cuba last summer, the Justice Department said.

Those named in the indictment, returned by a federal grand jury in Brooklyn, were: Philip Abbott Luce, 26, and Stefan Martiniot, 24, who were charged with illegally traveling to Cuba and back.

Anatol Schlosser, 26, like the others, also was charged with conspiring to recruit and arrange for the trip.

The grand jury charged that the defendants formed a committee to promote the trip to Cuba, recruited travelers and raised travel funds.

The alleged conspiracy began in October 1962, and continued until Aug. 9, 1963, the day the travelers returned, and charging them with leaving the United States for Cuba via Europe, without valid passports. The other three counts charged them with returning to this country from Cuba Aug. 9 via Spain, again without necessary passports.

Two other persons who, the Justice Department said, made the trip to Cuba were named as co-conspirators, but were not indicted. They are identified as Salvatore Cucchiari, 19, and Eileen Irene Shalit, 20, both of New York City.

NEWEST NATION—Joining the roster of the world's nations is Malaysia, a federation uniting independent Malaysia and the British dependencies of Singapore, North Borneo and Sarawak (shown in black on Newsmag). Tiny, oil-rich sultanate of Brunei was to have joined the federation but balked at the last minute. The new nation has a population of 10 million (three-quarters of them in Malaysia) and a total land area of 130,000 square miles (somewhat smaller than Montana) stretched across 1,800 miles between Thailand and the Philippines. Kuala Lumpur is the capital.

Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Is Dedicated to Service for Other People

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Star Feature Writer

With the approach of another new year of activities for Delta Kappa Gamma, the largest organized group of women educators in the world, our thoughts turn to the local chapter, Alpha Delta.

The International Society was organized by 12 Texas women, representing a cross section of educational work, on May 11, 1929, but it wasn't until 1935 that the Arkansas branch was formed and the Alpha Delta Chapter came into being March 4, 1950.

Alpha Delta had as charter members: Mrs. Edith Brown, Mrs. Irma Dean (deceased), Mrs. Ruth Hanagan, Miss Sophia Sue Harper, Miss Beryl Henry, Mrs. Florence Hyatt, Mrs. Mamie Jackson, Mrs. Mildred McPherson, Mrs. Gene Martin, Mrs. Phoebe Perkins, and Mrs. Jett Graves (honorary).

Miss Beryl Henry, who now lives at Benton but was a well-known local educator for years, was one of 13 founders of the state organization and served as the first president of the Alpha Delta Chapter. Those presidents who have succeeded her include: Mrs. Ruth Hanagan, Mrs. Mamie Jackson, Mrs. Phoebe Perkins, Mrs. Mina Mae Mason (deceased), Mrs. Mildred McPherson, and the current president, Mrs. Marie Holt.

The local chapter contributes annually to a World Scholarship Fellowship, a special scholarship fund. Several years ago Flossie Hartsfield received the state scholarship award, and more recently Mary Lou Park was the recipient of it.

Excellent programs have always been a part of the DKG organization. The guest speakers for the local chapter have included several Fulbright exchange students, who brought interesting highlights of their home-land; local attorneys who have explained amendments and legislative acts that concern the teaching profession; and school officials and classroom teachers, who have discussed topics of interest and concern.

Delta Kappa has sponsored several service projects, and perhaps the most gratifying response came from sending discarded nylon hose to women in welfare service in Japan and Christmas cards to a leper colony in Formosa. Old hats and purses were sent to the state hospital.

A recent project of special interest is the Memorial Bookshelf in the Junior High School Library in memory of Mrs. Mina Mae Mason. In the coming year projects will include: honoring past presidents on Alpha Delta's birthday; keeping historical records of local chapter members and those invited to join; sending hose and Christmas cards to leper colony in the Far East; having full membership participation on program; learning the DKG song; sending the DKG Bulletin to libraries; encouraging attendance by more members at district, state, national, and international meetings.

Another Pershing Missile Fired

BLANDING, Utah (AP) — A Pershing missile was fired into the White Sands missile range in southern New Mexico today.

The shot was the fourth successful one by the Army this week in the series of flights over sparsely populated areas.

The solid-fuel supersonic missile again made the 350-mile trip in about seven minutes.

New Type Asthma Brings Death

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban radio reported today that three more persons have died from a peculiar type of asthma attack that struck down more than 200 persons in Havana.

Five persons died of asthma Wednesday, because of a freak atmosphere condition, according to the radio, which was monitored in Miami.

1st Graders Look Teacher Right in Eye

DARRINGTON, Wash. (AP) — First-grade pupils in Miss Frieda Groenewald's class can look their teacher squarely in the eyes. She is 4 feet tall.

Being of a size with her pupils bothers neither Miss Groenewald nor the youngsters.

"Children need an answer," she says. "When you give it to them, that's all they need."

This is her first month as a teacher and Miss Groenewald admits she had the usual opening-day jitters of the new schoolma'am. One boy, clutching his mother's hand, looked the teacher in the eyes and asked: "How come you are so little?"

"I'm as big as you are," said the little teacher as the mother blushed. "Aren't we going to have fun?"

Fun is one of the nice things about being a first-grader here, but there is always order and respect. When Miss Groenewald mounts her kitchen stool—she calls it "my throne"—the class falls silent. Darrington School District officials believe they have found themselves a gem in their new teacher.

"I can really say that I've never wished that I were tall," says Miss Groenewald.

"My parents always emphasized that I would have to make my own way without depending on people feeling sorry for me."

After graduation from Seattle Pacific College she came to Darrington out of choice—she was born here, although she grew up in Everett.

Throughout the school she is known as "the little lady." Pupils from the upper grades often drop by to help her with physical tasks, such as posting bulletin board material.

"The thing that matters when people look differently at you," she says, "is how you, yourself, take it."

"If people are going to laugh, I'll laugh with them."

Hurricane Has Dissipated

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Hurricane Edith lost her center and dissipated as she crossed the eastern Dominican Republic today, Alberto Arvelo, director of the Dominican Weather Bureau, said.

"No center any more in my opinion," said Arvelo. "But Edith may reform when she leaves our north coast and crosses water."

The storm brought fresh winds and steady rain to the capital through the night and all morning. The forecaster said heavier rains undoubtedly were occurring in the eastern section and some flooding was probable in low lying coastal and river-tributary areas.

Reports from the area were lacking.

Disturbances Will Continue Warns King

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. has warned Birmingham, Ala., that demonstrations will resume in the next few days unless city leaders meet four demands designed to help solve civil rights problems.

King told a meeting of his Southern Christian Leadership Conference at Richmond, Va., Friday night the demands include: —Good faith negotiations.

—A public declaration by the mayor and the city council that they will comply with the law of the land and not continue to enforce segregation.

—A request by city officials that state troopers be removed.

—The hiring of Negro city policemen.

In addition to the demonstrations, the Negro leader said, a boycott will be recommended "on everything produced in Birmingham and on all business firms operating there."

King said that unless Congress passes a satisfactory civil rights bill—containing a public accommodations section—there will be mass civil disobedience which he will try to channel into nonviolent lines.

Another speaker, Rep. Adam C. Powell, D-N.Y., urged King to become the leader of a national "black revolution," and described him as the No. 1 man in the United States.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama expressed confidence investigators will find out who bombed a Negro church in Birmingham, killing four Negro girls Sept. 15.

Racial violence erupted for the second straight day on the campus of Arsenal Technical High School at Indianapolis despite the presence of six police squads and a number of plainclothes officers. The trouble ended with the arrest of 34 pupils.

Police said Negroes and white persons squared off into gangs and began stoning each other after a Negro girl struck a white girl in the eye. Tension developed Wednesday when a Negro boy entered a lunchroom normally used by white pupils despite the fact the school desegregated years ago.

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — Mayor Dene O. Hester took issue Wednesday with a Civil Aeronautics Board statement that Harrison was failing to provide enough passengers to qualify for airline service.

The CAB said in Washington Tuesday that of the 546 points with local airline service, about one-sixth are originating an average of less than five passengers a day.

CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd said the airlines could ask for a suspension of service unless the five passenger-a-day minimum is met. The CAB also can take action to terminate certification and airline service.

Hester said Harrison has provided an average of 163 passengers a month (more than five a day) through the six years it has been served by Central Airlines. During the fiscal year ended last June 30, Hester said, the average was 184 passengers a month.

Harrison has four Central flights daily.

President Not Welcome by Everyone

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Thursday that if his mail is any indication, President Kennedy may not be entirely welcome when he visits Arkansas next Thursday.
Kennedy is to dedicate Greers Ferry Dam on the Little Rock River near Heber Springs, then visit the Arkansas Livestock Exposition at Little Rock on a one-day trip to the state.
Faubus said some persons who have written to him expressed regret that the President was coming to the state, others wish Kennedy would cancel his visit.
"I've been warned by some supporters to not say or do anything that would infer my support for the President's civil rights program," the governor said.
Faubus said his mail has been heavier than usual about an event such as the President's visit, and he said "most of it has not been favorable" to the visit.
The Arkansas Statesman, the governor's statewide weekly newspaper, carried two unsigned letters to the editor this week which were unfavorable to Kennedy's visit.
Faubus said he thought the trip might boost Kennedy's popularity in Arkansas "a little but not

Recalls His Experience on Board

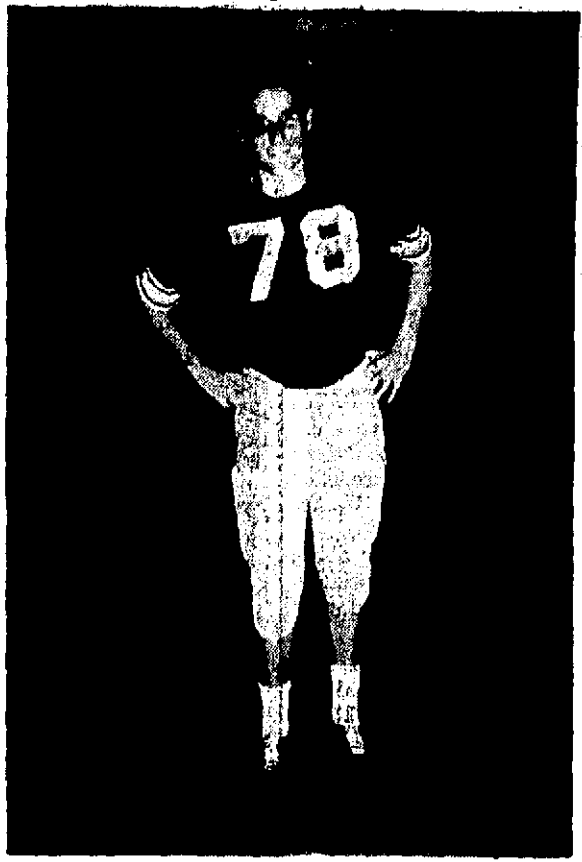

By WICK TEMPLE
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The gentleman who led Little Rock out of the dark days of racial strife, stepped down Thursday night as president of the city's school board.
"It was a frustrating, irritating, rewarding experience," he said of his five-year fight to return Little Rock schools to normal. "But I wouldn't want to do it again."
As board president and head of the City's Industrial Development Corporation, Tucker was the guiding force in Little Rock's attempt to meet federal court integration orders and overcome the stigma of the 1957-58 racial crisis.
"Board president is a time-consuming job," Tucker said. "I think it's time to let some body else take a whack at it. I hope our trouble is over. I think our board is now like other boards all across the country."
Tucker, 51, was replaced by vice president Russell Matson, also a racial moderate.
"I'm going to devote full time to industrial development and to getting a little cotton out of the field," Tucker said. He owns a large plantation southeast of Little Rock. He remains on the school board.
Under his leadership Little Rock has acquired four major industries and numerous minor ones since the three-year crisis lull in which no plants came to the city. More than 4,000 jobs have been created.
Tucker, who dresses in league but speaks with an ante-bellum accent, describes himself as a segregationist at heart who didn't want his city ruined by strife over a mob violence at Central High School in 1957 and the closing of the high schools in 1958, the old school board quit. Tucker filed for a post immediately. This fall, 123 Negroes attend once-white schools. Elementary school desegregation completed a three-

Mrs. Nhu to Get Polite Cold Shoulder

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials have decided on a policy of chill correctness—the polite cold shoulder—for dealing with Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu when she arrives in the United States.
"Nobody wants to get involved in the shouting match with a pretty woman," one diplomat said in commenting on the bitterly critical First Lady of South Vietnam. "You can't win anything that way."
The rejoinder made Thursday by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to Mrs. Nhu's attack on U.S. servicemen fighting communism in her country was prompted by morale considerations rather than by any readiness to engage in public debate with her, informants here said.
Mrs. Nhu, wife of the powerful brother of South Vietnam's bachelor president, Ngo Dinh Diem, had denounced what she called junior officers of the U.S. military mission for "acting like little soldiers of fortune."
Lodge said in Saigon that the Americans are engaged in a struggle with Communist guerrilla forces and "should be thanked and not insulted."
"These junior officers are risking their lives every day," he said. "It is incomprehensible to me how anyone can speak so cruelly."
In Rome later Mrs. Nhu again referred to "adventurers and saboteurs" among U.S. officers and brushed aside Lodge's criticism of her earlier remarks.
This was about the reaction which had been expected here.
In the White House and State Department she is regarded as a shrill-voiced gadfly and troublemaker whose long record of bitter attacks on the United States has had the result chiefly of building up antagonism to the South Vietnamese foreign aid program in Congress.
When she finally reaches the United States on her present trip to the West, officials said, Mrs. Nhu will not be invited to talk with any leading American authorities in spite of her important and highly vocal position in her own ruling family. If she asks to speak with anyone at the State Department she will be directed to an official at one of the lower levels of policymaking. But no one wishes to confer a kind of cheap martyrdom on her by making it appear that she was completely turned away or denied any hearing at all.
So far as the major issues of policy in the continuing Vietnamese crisis are concerned, Mrs. Nhu is regarded as buzzing about the real problems without actually being involved with them. The decision for Lodge to answer her is cited as an example. He spoke because the military officers thought someone should make a reply in their defense, not because there was any diplomatic judgment of a need for a reply.

THE STORY: Blake has been watching his brother Todd make a mysterious trip to the yacht of Valerie Hayward. Using glasses from shore, Blake sees them struggle, then disappear behind the superstructure of the craft.

Blake walked back to his home. After replacing the binoculars in the trunk of his car, he turned to the patio alongside the driveway. He chose a chair in the farthest corner where shaggy cabbage palms deepened the darkness. He was caught in a complex of anxieties and apprehensions, all adding to the repellent necessity of his own actions. But he had started, the job and the judge was depending on him.

Finally he heard Todd walking back along the drive. The light shining from the Wingate home revealed Todd as he came into the driveway. Blake watched him going through a series of puzzling actions.
He stopped just inside the garage, alongside the two large grvanized trash cans that sat there. He removed the cover from the nearer can. He fished inside it and brought up a discarded newspaper. Stooping, he unfolded the paper and spread it flat on the cement floor. Next, quickly, he removed his shirt, rolled it into a ball and wrapped the paper around it. He stuffed the bundle inside the open can, pushing it deep, and quietly replaced the lid through the garage.
Blake heard him walking through the garage. Carefully avoiding noise, he opened the door connecting with the kitchen and stood sideward to the opening, leaning in slightly, his head cocked, listening. The kitchen was dark, but the shine of the lamps in the living room reached him, slanting across his bare chest. Having made sure no one was about, he stepped inside and closed the door silently behind him.

When Blake was certain that Todd had gone into the washing, he rose and crossed the patio, moving with Todd's own stealth. He lifted the lid from the same trash can. He removed the bundle and opened it. Unrolling the white sports shirt, he held it up. The front of it was spotted. There were eight or ten scattered stains, all roughly round, of varying sizes, the largest an inch across. They were dry but bright; all of them were red. Fresh red blood.
Blake had had a clear view of Todd standing at the kitchen door, naked above the waist, the light gleaming on his skin. He had seen that Todd's chest was unmarked—clean, totally unmarked.
The blood on the shirt could not be Todd's own.
The blood on the shirt had to be Val's.

There was only one way Blake could make certain of what had happened aboard Valec: go and see for himself.
The yacht club, an out-moded white shingle structure, originally a private home, sat just beyond the corner. Ten or 12 cars were dozing in the parking lot. The jalousie windows were open; inside, people were hobnobbing at the bar and sitting at card tables. Pausing at a rear corner, Blake made sure that none of the help was loitering outside for a smoke.
Blake's locker was the last in a row of eight. He found his key and fumbled it into the padlock. As quietly as he could manage the awkward job, he wrestled his outboard motor off its bracket. He carried it, staking with its weight, along the branch of the T, to the 'slip where he kept his 16-foot runabout. Lowering that mass of metal into the boat without help, in dim light, was a breath-taking strain.
He climbed down and cast off. A rising wind was roughening the water. The boat rocked erratically while he struggled to get the motor mounted. When finally the clamps were tight his back was stiff and aching. He was in the channel now; the current was carrying him farther from the clubhouse and deeper into the darkness.
He yanked the starter cord and at the first try the motor caught with a lion's roar.
He sprang into it, throttled it down to a quiet speed. The runabout carried combination running light in the bow. Taking a cue from his crafty brother, he didn't turn it on.
Valec loomed huge as he drew near. He drifted close and made fast to the ladder. He climbed, and with his hand just above the rail he hung and froze, looking down at the dark human heap on the deck.
Valerie Hayward lay still in the light shining from the cabin. Her eyes were wide open, staring sightlessly at the scudding clouds. Blake remembered how he had seen her fighting Todd, then falling, pulling him down with her. With a panicky sense of disaster, he knew that Val had been lying there like that, all dead slackness, when Todd left Valec.

Isolationism Is Not for Kennedy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, who is against isolationism abroad, doesn't practice it at home, either. The results aren't always happy but there are results.
He described isolationism at Salt Lake City Thursday as a "policy of retreat" to which this country can never return.
He put it this way:
"We cannot adopt a policy which says that, if something does not happen or others do not act exactly how and when we wish, we will pick up our marbles and go home."
But that's the way he also operates at home with both Democrats and Republican politicians when they disagree with him, frustrate him, or slaughter one of his programs.
Members of both parties have stood in his way time and again but, like President Eisenhower, he avoids personal quarrels with them. He doesn't attack them or try to punish them, at least in public.
How much this policy is original with Kennedy and how much he owes to Eisenhower for it is not clear. But he saw Eisenhower, following this policy, get overwhelmingly re-elected and remain a highly popular president.
And Kennedy is going to run for re-election next year.
His policy in dealing with his frustrators seems to be: If not today, then better luck tomorrow. And sometimes it pays off handsomely. A good example is Rep. Wilbur Mills, Democratic chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.
Last year Mills was the biggest single roadblock to Kennedy's major program of medical care for the aged. One of Kennedy's aides was asked why the President didn't go after Mills to try to whip him into line.
The aide shrugged: "Well, he's against us on this. But he's been a help to us in the past on other things and he'll be a help to us again on something else."
Kennedy was so completely blocked on the medical care program that he didn't try to push for it this year. This year, starting out, he made his biggest program a call for a tax cut.
The prestige and influence of this Democratic from Arkansas was undoubtedly a very big factor in the tax cut bill's success in the House.
Kennedy has followed outside of Congress this same policy of not angering people who can be of help to him. From the very beginning of his presidency he has retained a pretty good relationship with Eisenhower.
The latter has supported him more than once on major problems.
The two men have been critical of each other's performance from time to time, but there has been no harshness, and no break, an extreme contrast to the sour, non-existent relationship between Eisenhower and former President Harry S. Truman.
While Kennedy was running into opposition this year in the Senate on the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, Eisenhower gave him a big helping hand by coming out in support of it. This could not but help influence Republicans.
The absence of conflict between the two men can't be given as the reason for Eisenhower's approval of the treaty, but Kennedy has avoided any conflict that might ever influence his predecessor's thinking.
Nor, to give another example, has Kennedy closed any doors on his relations with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon although there is no chummy relationship between them.
Nixon, beaten for the presidency by Kennedy by a squeak, has been critical of Kennedy. But the President hasn't turned any guns on Nixon. And Nixon, too, supported the test ban.

ADVICE TO LONELY WIDOW
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Here is my suggestion to the Lonely Widow who marveled at the lack of eligible men in any church:
Dear Lonely: Attending church and living by its teachings is all very fine—keep it up, but remember that men for the most part are not religious so, if you'd like to be where men are, go bowling. Join the evening garden clubs, attend baseball games (locally, of course). Visit Grange meetings, baby sit for young parents with male relatives, serve one day a week at your local hospital, go swimming. It's a bit chilly now—but maybe there are indoor swimming pools and clubs in your town. Sign up for night school courses.
Keep your mind on what you are doing, not on finding a husband—that shows and the boys will shy off. If you never do land one, well you'll have plenty of company but think of all the nice people you'll meet. Not all of us girls are widows, but instead of being golf, baseball or even "work" widows, we do something, don't just sit at home twiddling our thumbs and feeling sorry for ourselves.—Another Gal er to live down a bad reputation than to gain one: to begin with. But time is on your side. The lines of communication between you and God are always open and there is no reason for the bishop's wife to cross them.

Dear Helen: Is there anything wrong in a girl wanting to invite 10 or 12 people to her home for a party. I won't be 17 till the latter part of my senior year but feel I must make friends before the senior prom next spring else I will have no one to take me. Oh, I do know a few boys; one no longer in school, another who is a junior and a third who attends college. But to ask any of them to take me without being better acquainted, would be difficult. My parents say I'm too young to date. I say, okay, why can't I ask the boys here. They say "no!"
There is one boy I could go for—comes of good family and is an honor student, but he likes a girl who called him "A Big Drip." Is it wrong to call boys once in awhile —N. T. C.
Dear N. T. C.: Your parents seem to be living in the wrong century. Try to make them aware of the social mores of teenagers by appealing to some of their friends, getting them to read this column, by persuading them to attend P.T.A. meetings.
You are not too young to date and your idea of giving a party at your home is an excellent one. But you will have to launch a powerful propaganda campaign to alter your parents' outmoded thinking. Let the boys phone you. The male still likes to consider himself the aggressor. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "What Age for Dating?"

Talked Too Much, Says Sylvester

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Arthur Sylvester, assistant U.S. secretary of defense here with Secretary Robert S. McNamara, said today he may have gone too far in statements about the situation as seen by McNamara.
Sylvester has been holding sessions with correspondents to report on McNamara's activities and views. Some of the reports have tended to take an optimistic view of the outlook.
Today Sylvester said McNamara had made no deductions during his trip, and added "I may have gone too far" in statements to correspondents.

Farther You Travel in Life the Less You Look Forward to Where You Are Going

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The farther you travel in life the less you look forward to where you're going, and the more you like to stop and look back down the road you came along.
This is the pause that refreshes, the pause when the present fades and memory takes over.
You may be bodily old, but you're still young in heart if you can remember when—
Every little girl with golden hair and a dimple took tap dancing lessons in hopes she'd become another Shirley Temple.
The world waited to see if Houdini, trapped at last in a box he couldn't escape from, would be able to send a message from the grave.
Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford reigned as king and queen of Hollywood and lived in a palace called Pickfair.
Sage military leaders were sure that if a second world war came the Germans would try to win it at the start with a massive poison gas attack.
You had to button wives up the back instead of zipping them—and when a man bought a suit it had two pairs of pants as well as a vest.
Men seldom made passes at girls who wore glasses — until some genius did the lassies a favor by inventing contact lenses.

One of the greatest joys in autumn was to go chestnut hunting in the woods. Then a great blight came that killed off all the chestnut trees.
On summer evenings a man could sit on his front porch with his shirt off and his stockings feet on the railing and still not lose his standing in the community.
Any fellow was thought to have a cushy job if he worked only half a day on Saturdays.
The only people who got pensions were the widows of Civil War veterans and those who'd been on a government or railroad payroll.
The local grocery store kept both peanut butter and lard in large tins, and sold them to you in small wooden trays wrapped in tissue paper.
You could drop a quarter in the church collection plate on Sunday and feel at peace with God.
If a politician couldn't stand up in the back of a wagon and hold a small town crowd spellbound for two hours, he had a poor chance of being elected.

"THE LIST OF ADRIAN MESSENGER" stars George C. Scott, Dana Wynter, Clive Brooks and 5 special guest stars in their most unusual roles, Tony Curtis, Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, Robert Mitchum and Frank Sinatra.

Sunday-Monday At Dixie

The restaurant atop the Space Needle at the Seattle World's Fair forms the unusual setting for a romantic scene between Elvis Presley and Joan O'Brien in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "It Happened at the World's Fair." Presley introduces ten new song hits in the Panvision and Metrocolor attraction, co-starring Gary Lockwood, and directed by Norman Taurog.

Starts Tuesday at Saenger

"THE MANCHURIAN CANDIDATE" stars Frank Sinatra, Janet Leigh and Laurence Harvey in a most exciting motion picture.

Ministers Review Cold War Issue

By LEWIS GULICK

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and West Germany met today to review cold war issues in advance of a meeting of the ministers of the three big nuclear powers Saturday. There was a growing feeling among Western diplomats that no wide agreement will ensue from the forthcoming encounter with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Bobcats Blast Bucks 33-14 In 4-AA Win

McLarty Takes Kickoff For 90 Yd. Tally

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sports Writer

The Hope Bobcats outgunned, outlasted, and outpointed the Smackover Buckaroos Friday night at Hammons Stadium. The Bucks managed to show the flare that was supposed to assure them of the 4AA crown only in the third period. It was not enough, as they lost their second conference 33-14.

The Buck didn't actually stand a chance. Great work by McLarty and McDowell on offense, and Burnett and McDowell on defense, really wrapped up the game for the Cats. As Your Truly mentioned, Smackover had a devastating passing attack. Only it was devastating to them, not us. House just wasn't showing the stuff, because he managed to complete only four out of sixteen tries. He had three intercepted. He bombed out.

It was three cheers for the coaches in the dressing room, and they returned the complement, only in different ways. Coach Burton said that "everybody played well. The third quarter was a little frightening. Things looked bad for a while. At the half, we tried to make a script of the second half. We told them that Smackover could still come back. And when they made their second touchdown, everyone said 'well, here it is, just like they told us it would be.' But you can more or less expect that after as hot a first half as we had. We learned a lot of things that will be helpful. It was a good game."

Coach Francis admitted that he "felt a little humble. 20-14 had me worried." He just kept muttering "great effort, great effort, great effort" over and over to himself. The Cats were really fired up before the game. They showed it by taking the kickoff and marching 65 yards in twelve plays, behind runs by fullback Richard McDowell. McDowell took it over from the 1 for the TD. Ricky Butler had to try twice to get it.

to count, but he still made the extra point, and the Cats swept ahead 7-0.

After getting the ball on a punt, Hope again marched down the field behind the able running of HB Jerry Burnett and McDowell. This time the drive was capped by a 3-yard loss from Mac McLarty to Mutt Wassell for the score. Butler again split the up-rights to make it Hope 14, Bucks 0 at the quarter.

An alert interception by McDowell made way for the next Cat pounce. On a third and ten situation, Buddy Jordan sent a short pass in the direction of Larry Thrash, who made some tough yardage on in to paydirt. PAT failed, and the score ended up 20-0, Hope, at halftime.

An eighty-two piece Smackover band shared its spotlight with the Bobcat marching band during halftime ceremonies. Before the game, a salute was given the Dads of the Bobcat players.

A Lesson In

HIS PLAN

How often shall I forgive? Peter thought he was generous when he forgave three times, since that is what the Jewish clergy required. But when Jesus said "seventy times seven," it exploded like a bombshell. Peter thought God should be proud of him. Seven is 233% of three. But Peter didn't know God; nor do we. Most men cannot believe how far the love of God will go. Seventy times seven means there is no end to God's forgiveness. As often as we sincerely confess, God will fully forgive. Little narrow souls can't realize how generously God forgives. "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors," is a dangerous prayer unless we forgive as Jesus did. He who forgives is victor. Seventy Times Seven, means the best way to "get even" is to forget.
